

Soulmates

Fact or Fiction?

Aashna Jain
SXCJ

I don't believe in soulmates,
An elusive concept, in my view,
A romantic notion, sold by fate,
A fairy tale, painted in hue.

Yet, some believe in destiny's hand,
That there's one perfect match in the land.

But is love so simple, so absolute?
Does it always follow a prescribed route?
Is there only one person to complete,
A puzzle piece to make life replete?

Perhaps soulmates are not just one,
But many, who make our lives fun.
Those who challenge us to grow,
And lift us up when we're feeling low.

So, maybe soulmates do exist,
But not as a single perfect bliss.
Rather, as a network of connections;
Bringing joy and love from all directions.