

Becoming Her

Tisha Jain
SXCJ

When I started showing up as a woman I wanted to be,
the world began responding to me;
showing me all the different ways I needed to keep moving,
and healing,
and growing,
and stretching beyond myself, beyond anything I had ever reached before.

When I started showing up as a woman I wanted to be,
the world led me to a place where I could finally say:
“I am her.”